

Cleveland Golf Clubs Tips

Shopping for new golf clubs can be a daunting task. You want woods to give you big distance. Irons for precise shots. A putter that can make or break your game. Fortunately, Cleveland Golf Clubs offers a complete selection to meet all the needs of every golfer.

Cleveland Golf is best known for its series of Cleveland Classic putters, which come in a variety of styles to match the taste of every golfer. Cleveland Golf, though, offers much, much more for the beginning, intermediate and professional golfers.

Cleveland HALO Utility Club

This long iron features a larger than normal sweet spot, so even beginning players can take full advantage of this "secret weapon" on the fairway. The club designers at Cleveland also sought to make the clubs easier to use, by increasing the club "forgiveness" when your swing isn't exactly on the mark. The face is designed to allow increased spin and higher altitude arcs on your shot. This club is available with both steel and graphite shafts.

Cleveland CG2 Irons

More serious golfers prefer the CG2 Irons. Cleveland specifically geared these beauties for players who already shoot mid-range or slight above par. These are players who already possess a talent of the game. All they need is the right equipment to help them achieve the next playing level. Like the famous Cleveland Classic series putters, the CG2 Irons have a unique appearance that really stands out. While certainly eye-catching, the real beauty of these clubs becomes apparent when you take them out of your bag. Swing a Cleveland CG2 Iron, and you'll quickly learn to appreciate their control, feel and balance. Their heads are weighted around the edges, with a cavity in center of their back, allowing both simultaneous control and forgiveness. With a lower than normal density, these clubs can increase swing speed for greater impact, while producing less vibration to interfere with your ball contact.

Cleveland Launcher Comp Fairway Woods

Of course, Cleveland doesn't just produce putters and irons. Their new Launcher Comp Fairway Woods will help any golfer get the most from their approach game. These woods feature an unprecedented lightweight carbon-fiber head. Thanks to this lighter club weight, golfers find it easier to launch the ball higher and with less backspin.

As you can see, there is much more to the Cleveland series of golf clubs than just putters. If you're in the market for golf clubs, Cleveland clubs can help you get the most out of every swing and stroke, from tee to cup.
